The use of OR and AI for workforce planning in call centers and health care
Ger Koole, VU Amsterdam

We discuss how advanced planning method from operations research and artificial intelligence are used to optimize call centers. We compare this to the current situation in health care and see hoe that area could profit from similar techniques.