

Research School for Operations
Management and Logistics

Smart Logistics

Robert Boute

In this presentation, I share how I shaped my research agenda to address topical problems. The best news is that I could leverage my existing expertise on traditional inventory control problems to identify problems that matter to the business world (and society at large).